Sarah Stewart
Aged Care Queensland

Sarah Stewart wears many hats: health professional, educator, project manager, consultant and midwife. She is currently project manager for Aged Care Queensland, implementing and evaluating an e-mentoring system, as well as lead educator in the Second Life Education New Zealand project. She is also a PhD candidate at the University of Queensland. Sarah is very interested in how social media and networking can enhance professional development and life-long learning, especially for health professionals. She is a prolific blogger (http://sarah-stewart.blogspot.com) and her ePortfolio (http://sarahstewart-eportfolio.wikispaces.com) has gained international attention and acclaim.
