Grant Harman is Emeritus Professor at the Centre for Higher Education Management and Policy (UNE). He is a higher education policy specialist who has undertaken major research and consulting projects for DEST, other Australian government agencies, and international bodies, including the World Bank, UNESCO and Education IDP. He has had extensive experience in international surveys of higher education developments and in studies of students, staff and other higher education stakeholders. Currently he is Project Manager for the DEST-funded study to develop a National Diploma Supplement that will develop a single agreed template for an Australian Diploma Supplement and make recommendations on implementation issues.

Project role and commitment:
Professor Harman’s role will be to inform the project with regard to likely outcomes from the National Diploma Supplement Project, particularly on relationships between ePortfolios and Diploma Supplements. He will contribute to the literature review, mapping the national and international context and identifying possible impacts of ePortfolios on Australian higher education. Professor Grant Harman is committed to give three days per month to the project.
