Professor Sandra Wills
Director of CEDIR, Centre for Educational Development & Interactive Resources, University of Wollongong

Professor Sandra Wills is Director of CEDIR, Centre for Educational Development & Interactive Resources, at the University of Wollongong. CEDIR is a 50 person centre responsible for both academic development and eLearning. A national eLearning leader, she has spearheaded the development of the University of Wollongong’s eLearning Strategic Plan, as well as the eTeaching Business Plan 2005-2010 which included the roll out of an ePortfolio system in 2006, first piloted in 2001 by Sarah Lambert. She is an experienced collaborator on national projects and is involved in a number of Carrick grants, including being Project Leader for Project EnRoLE with four other universities.

Project role and commitment:
In addition to ensuring that Sarah Lambert has the release to participate fully in the project as the UOW representative, Professor Wills will assist the team with high level project planning and development of strategic policies for ePortfolio. She also has an interest in assisting the project to scope academic development strategies for ePortfolio. Professor Wills is able to contribute one day per month to the ePortfolio project.